An "author" is considered to be someone who has made substantive intellectual contributions to this study. To be listed as an author, an individual should have made substantial contributions to all three of the following categories established by the International Committee of Medical Journal Editors (ICMJE): (1) substantial contributions to conception and design, or acquisition of data, or analysis and interpretation of data; (2) drafting the article or revising it critically for important intellectual content; and (3) final approval of the version to be published.

Acquisition of funding, collection of data, or general supervision of the research group, alone, does not justify authorship.
